To His Excellency, CHARLES FOSTER, Governor of Ohio:

DEAR SIR: The Trustees of the Institution for the Education of the Blind have the pleasure of presenting the forty-fifth annual report, with the reports of the officers of the Institution.

It will be seen by these reports that the interests and education of the blind—objects of deep solicitude to the people of Ohio, for which our noble State has made such munificent provision—have been promoted and fostered to an extent satisfactory to the most exacting.

As heretofore, the sessions of the school for the past year have been pleasant and profitable to the pupils, and the official management has been efficient.

Improvements and purchases contemplated in the appropriations of last winter have been made, and their advantage to the Institution quite exceeds the labor and cost of making them.

Upon the important matter of lighting the Institution, we repeat what we said in our last report. Our present supply of gas is not sufficient, and has not been since it has been furnished from the Penitentiary. The Institution for the Deaf and Dumb suffers in the same way. Various remedies have been suggested and applied, but still our light is insufficient. It has been suggested that a gasometer be erected on the grounds of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb sufficiently large to supply these two institutions for several days. This gasometer could be filled during the day-time, and thus furnish an ample supply of gas for the night. It is thought that this will be a cheaper way to remedy the difficulty than it would be to put in a larger pipe from the State House to these institutions. We would, therefore, unite with the Trustees of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb in the request that this or some better plan be adopted to relieve these two institutions of the difficulty under which they labor for want of light.

We again call the attention of the Legislature to the subject of purchasing a small tract of land adjacent to the grounds of the Institution. The importance, nay, the necessity of this purchase cannot be too strongly urged. We must have it, and we cannot longer defer its purchase with justice to the tax-payer. The ground has been held thus long, more for the accommodation of the State than to put money in the pocket of the owner. He will hold it no longer than the coming year. If sold, it will be divided into building lots, and in addition to the inconveniences to the Institution from being deprived of the use of the ground—which we are at present renting—it will be subjected to the annoyance arising from the out-houses, which must necessarily be placed in very close proximity to the Institution.

As the owner of this tract of land knows its value to a cent, has fixed its price, and will stand by that price, there can be nothing lost to the State by your Trustees stating with plainness their opinion of the importance of buying this land at once. As a means of facilitating the advised purchase, we repeat the statement that the State now owns a tract of land a little east of the Institution, whose sale would nearly, if not quite, cover the cost of the proposed purchase.

To reassure parents and friends of pupils in regard to any danger from fire, we would state that we have good means of extinguishing a fire, if one should start in the Institution, or of escaping if it should get beyond control.

We have fire-plugs and hose on every floor, and the city fire department is within ready call. We have five independent fire-proof stair-cases, down any one of which all the inmates of the house could be taken in case of emergency.

It is with just pride that your Trustees reiterate the opinion that the good people of Ohio fervently desire that the blind should be well and efficiently instructed, and, so far as possible, be fitted to take their places of responsibility among their fellow-men; and that they will cheerfully consent to the cost needful for this purpose, their past munificent appropriations abundantly attest.

We respectfully call attention to the full and instructive report of Mr. G. L. Smead, the Superintendent of the Institution, whose deep solicitude for the welfare of the unfortunate ones under his charge, and careful and able management of the Institution are so strikingly manifest, that your Excellency and the people of Ohio, whose servants we are, have only to see all as we see it to take the greatest pleasure in granting, as far as practicable, anything he may suggest as important to the successful working of the Institution.

We call attention also to the report of Mr. R. W. Bell, Steward of the Institution, who certainly watches the financial interests of the State with commendable care, and renders full satisfaction as Steward. We put it tamely when we pronounce him the man for the place.

We should feel that we had but half discharged our duty, if we failed to ask that the law regulating the salary of the Matron of the Institution be so modified as to empower the Trustees to allow a salary bearing some proportion to the services rendered. Trustees longest on the Board think that the saving to the State through the wise oversight of our Matron, Miss O. M. Brown, to say nothing of the work performed by her own hands, quadruples the salary we pay her. As a matron, the lady is seldom equaled and cannot be excelled. Fitted by nature, culture and experience for that responsible trust, and faithful to a degree unsurpassed, to us it seems that a due regard to the honor of the State demands that she receive a salary which would be a fitting recognition of her fidelity to her important position, and which should provide her with a competency when the result of overwork shall come, as come it certainly will, and she shall be disabled for further services.

In considering the wants of the Institution, we have decided to ask for the following appropriations:

Current expenses.....	$34,500 00
Salaries of officers and teachers.....	10,653 50
Ordinary repairs.....	3,000 00
Furniture, bedding and carpets .....	2,000 00
Books, school apparatus and musical instruments.....	1,000 00
Expenses of Trustees.....	350 00

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Gentlemen of the Board of Trustees :

I herewith submit to you the report of the condition and progress of the institution for another year. Good advancement has been made in the several departments of instruction, and in the financial report of the Steward it will be seen that the interests of the State have been carefully preserved. Toward the last of the winter the measles became epidemic in the institution, which interfered somewhat with the progress of those especially affected, and caused quite a number to go home, thus reducing the number of pupils during the last quarter of the term.

We embody various matters of interest in the following tables :

RECORD OF LAST TERM.

New pupils entered: Males, 25; Females, 18; total .....	43

A few changes in the corps of officers and teachers have been made: Mr. R. W. Bell has been appointed Steward to succeed Mr. John McCarty; Miss Laura A. Strother succeeds Miss Mary S. Redick as teacher;

Mr. John Bitzer has been appointed assistant teacher in the musical department, and Mr. A. L. Bohrer has been secured as teacher of tuning. By this last appointment we have revived the tuning department, discontinued some years ago, and we hope, by efficient progress in that direction, to furnish an additional means of livelihood to many of the young men now in the Institution. In order to develop this department as it should be, additional apparatus will be needed from time to time. It will be well to take this into consideration in asking an appropriation for the musical department. Instruction in piano tuning is considered a very important matter in the larger institutions of the country, and successful tuners are being sent out every year. The Ohio Institution should not be behind in the means put within the reach of her pupils to perfect themselves in this art. The need of apparatus in all departments of instruction of the blind is manifest. Some may be obtained from the income of the Congressional grant, but musical apparatus, and much that would be useful, can not as yet be obtained in that way.

Specimens to illustrate the animal and the mineral kingdoms are needed: as, for instance, stuffed animals of various kinds, geological and mineralogical specimens that might be collected, or obtained at the cost of collection. Wooden models of various objects might be constructed at little cost, but all, in the aggregate, would entail some expense to be provided for in the appropriation for school apparatus. Various parts of pianos and organs could be used to advantage, in connection with the tuning department, to give the pupils instruction concerning the construction of the instruments which they have to deal with.

This Institution has been successful in giving such instruction to its inmates as to enable many of them to obtain a livelihood. Many others have become capable of assisting in the work at their homes, and are useful members of the household.

But there is a class of blind persons who are now, or have been inmates of the Institution, who will fail of complete self-support. The failures will be for various reasons. Some will fail for want of industry, energy and business capacity, just as men with all their senses fail. Some will fail from want of character to command the respect and patronage of the communities in which they live, and some from habits which excite the disgust of their fellow-men.

But there will continue to be those who do their best and then do not succeed.

This is a case in point: a man comes here and learns to make brooms. He improves his time faithfully, but lacks in natural mechanical skill; he learns slowly and works slowly. When his time is out he can perhaps make a good broom, but is a slow workman, and cannot, even if he had the chance immediately, earn his full support; and, worse than that, he has no means with which to purchase a machine and the necessary material for commencing work.

I have known men of energy in such a situation to obtain the means for starting in business by peddling, trading, sawing wood, or anything which they could find to do. But the average man in such circumstances, with the depressing influence of total blindness upon him, will be likely to fail and drift at last into the county infirmary, to become a burden upon the community. A little help at the right time and in the right way would enable him to support himself, in part, if not entirely. But there are more extreme cases than this.

Seeing girls and women, when thrown upon their own resources, often have great difficulty in supporting themselves, but with the added burden of blindness to carry it is not surprising that some of our female graduates should come short of sustaining themselves. A majority of our blind girls and women have homes, and their friends have means to care for them while they assist in the work of the home. Some of our female graduates have bravely taken upon themselves the burden of life and borne it unflinchingly.

But the fact still remains that there are now and will continue to be a considerable number of blind persons, male and female, that have had the benefit of this Institution who need a helping hand to supplement their efforts for self-support.

It is true that the ignorant, the lazy and the shiftless will naturally gravitate to the infirmaries and spend their lives there, but to a refined young lady who has been through our course of study and acquired tastes as pure and elevated as any lady in the common walks of life, the anticipations of such a home is dreadful.

But what shall be done?

Evidently we are doing the best for the fortunate and for the unfortunate, when we help them by giving them the opportunity to help themselves by so assisting them in the time of need as to foster the elevating spirit of self-reliance and discourage the degrading feeling of dependence. This principle, I think, belongs to a wise philanthropy—and a wise statesmanship should not ignore it—to so care for the poor, the unfortunate and the criminal as to discourage idleness and vice, and to encourage on the other hand that self-responsibility which inspires one to stand up in his self-respect and do for himself, honestly and fairly, what he can to meet the necessities of life. It may be said that these are very general principles, yet out of them we can draw the particular line of action for special cases. To illustrate: Last term a man went out from this Institution, who with a few months instruction had learned to make brooms. He was a good workman, but he had no means to purchase the requisite tools, machinery, and material. His relatives were poor and could not assist him. The Institution had no fund to use for his benefit in this direction. To meet the case, a benevolent lady in the city where he lived went around among her friends, and, adding their contributions to her own, bought the necessary machinery and material, built him a shop, and set him up in business. But for this timely aid the man very likely would either have been a burden upon his friends, who were too poor to care for him, or upon the public. Now, in all probability, he will relieve both his friends and the public of his support, and take it upon himself like a man.

I mention this case not only to illustrate my principle, but also to suggest to the good people of the towns and cities of the State one way in which they may help to solve a problem, which presses itself upon those who have in charge the care and education of the blind. And this is not only one way of reaching such cases, but the best way. The State is doing nobly in its public charities, but this should not take away the responsibility of private charity to the poor at our own doors. Private charity has in it a personality which reaches the heart of the recipient, exciting his gratitude, putting him upon his good behavior and upon his best efforts. But public charity is impersonal. The recipient does not so readily realize that there is a kind heart behind it; his gratitude, if he has any, does not remain with him so long as a motive to exertion. Public charity has this evil often connected with it, that it tends, if often repeated or long continued, to deaden the feelings of gratitude and independence. Still, private charity does not reach all cases of want as human nature now is; hence, public charity administered by the authorities of the city, county, or State, must come in to supply what is lacking.

If a blind man needs help in commencing business and private charity does not meet the case, help should come from as near home as possible. Let the town, city, or county authorities be empowered to give such help as would be wisest under the circumstances and best for the self-respect and independence of the recipient. This help should not be given to a worthy blind person as to a pauper, but as to one who is halting a little in the race of life and needs a friendly staff to lean upon, that he may press toward the goal with less odds against him. But it may be answered that the towns, cities, and counties will fail to provide for such cases. This is probably true. Each city and town has its own burdens to carry, and the counties would be unwilling to assume any more. Our next resort must be to the State, which is already caring so bountifully for her unfortunate children. What more can the State do, and how can she do it?

First, if the State is to do more for the blind than she is already doing, let her do it, so far as possible, without building costly buildings and bringing them together in close association. While it may be necessary to bring the unfortunate together for convenience of care and instruction, yet it is better, that so far as possible, they should be free from the morbid influence of each other, and out among the vigorous and healthy influences of the busy world.

How can the State help a blind man or woman who is able to work, and needs assistance in commencing business? First, means might be placed in the hands of proper persons, which may be used to purchase a broom machine for a worthy blind man, so that he may carry on his business among his neighbors and friends who will patronize and furnish a market for his brooms. In another community a blind woman might be assisted until she is able to support herself in her work or profession, or her partial self-support might be supplemented so as to keep her from absolute dependence. A homeless blind girl of agreeable disposition and manners might find a home in a good family, and do what she could to compensate for her living, if the means thus provided by the State could be applied to fill out what she might lack in earning her place in the home. It would be best that any funds to be thus used should be intrusted to some responsible person in the neighborhood of the recipient, who would know that the person was worthy, and would see to it that the money was properly used and appreciated. Such means might be used when practicable and where the charities of the neighborhood failed to reach the case. But will such measures, if taken, reach all worthy cases of needy blind persons? Probably not. A few prominent cases here and there would be relieved and considerable good done at a small expense. Still, by any of the foregoing methods we should probably come short of doing all that might be done for the worthy, industrious blind of the State. We are pressed forward then to the final question. It may be out of place now, considering the financial burdens which the State will have to carry for some years to come, to think of establishing an industrial home for the needy blind of Ohio, and the evils that might follow the bringing together of any number of blind persons into such a permanent community should lead us to consider carefully and plan wisely before engaging in such an undertaking.

In connection with the educational institution for the blind in Philadelphia, a home is made for a limited number, twenty, I think. In Philadelphia there is also a "Working Home for Blind Men," and also one for women.

These are institutions, to which a blind person can be admitted and be provided with work and receive wages therefor. The proceeds of the labor are sold and used for the support of the home. These institutions are not expected to be self-supporting, but only partially so, the deficiency being made up from the funds of the institution. But none of these institutions just mentioned are State institutions, and so far as I know, no State has yet put in operation an industrial home for the blind.

The legislature of New York passed an act, April 8, 1881, authorizing the Governor to appoint five commissioners for the purpose of selecting a site, and reporting plans for the organization of a "State Home for the Blind," said commissioners to report at the meeting of the next legislature.

I think that New York is the first State to pass an act of this kind. She has already within her borders two large and prosperous institutions for the education of the blind, and now she leads the van in this enterprise, not new to educators of the blind, but new as a State charity.

But great care and wisdom will need to be exercised in establishing and administering such a State charity. Those who are able to support themselves outside should not be admitted, for that would take away a very important stimulus to exertion that now animates the inmates of our educational institutions. The lazy, the dissolute and the worthless should not be admitted: they would demoralize the institution and make it unfit for those of refined sensibilities. Only the worthy blind who are unable completely to support themselves should be admitted, and these with the understanding that they are to contribute by their work and service, as far as they are able, to their support. Measures should be taken, also, for those who can, to accumulate something over and above what they are called upon to pay or render, in order that they may eventually become independent of the home and go out and support themselves, thus leaving their places to be filled by others. We shall look with much interest upon the organization of the home in New York, and we hope that it may be so wisely administered as to be a worthy example for other states to follow. In the meantime we can wait and obtain suggestions from their experience.

Our good State is doing nobly in the care of the unfortunate, but we have not yet gone over the whole field of philanthropic effort ; indeed, the State ought to leave a large field to private charity, so that the individual may realize the blessedness of giving directly from his purse and from his heart.

We read in Holy Writ, "Ye have the poor always with you, and whensoever ye will ye can do them good;" so, as time goes on, and we continue the work of benevolence, we shall find new avenues of philanthropy as our hearts enlarge and take in more completely the whole field of divine charity which we are to enter and cultivate, until the blessings return in rich abundance upon ourselves.

This Institution, and, through it, the blind of Ohio, have reason for profound gratitude to God, who has moved the good people of the State to deeds of charity in founding and supporting so many institutions for the unfortunate. And we, who are at present laboring in the Institution and receiving its benefits, express to you, gentlemen of the Board, their gratitude for your kindly and intelligent interest in the Institution; and I, as Superintendent, would thank the officers and employes for their faithful and diligent service in the interests of the Institution.

Respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF THE PHYSICIAN.

To the Board of Trusters:

GENTLEMEN: I herewith submit my fourth annual report as physician. The institution has suffered more from sickness this year than for many previous years. In January, the measles broke out on the female side of the house, and the contagion soon spread over the entire building. Over sixty cases occurred, and the disease continued until the middle of March. There were about twenty cases of diphtheria, five cases of pneumonia, and two of inflammatory rheumatism during the year. One boy received a severe burn on the left leg, extending from the knee to the foot; one boy suffered the fracture of the fibula at the ankle. There were no deaths during the year. Many of the female pupils have been afflicted with obstinate hoarseness and loss of voice, which I attribute in a great measure to the dampness occasioned by scrubbing the stone floors. The water permeates the stone and interstices, which hold dampness for several days. It can be remedied by putting up the interstices and painting the stone floors. The matron and her assistant matrons deserve our special recognition for their prompt and continued attention to the wants of the sick during the year.

Respectfully submitted.

J. R. FLOWERS. Physician.

REPORT OF THE STEWARD.

COLUMBUS, O., November 15. 1881.

To the Board of Trustees:

GENTLEMEN: I herewith present to you my first annual report as financial officer of the Ohio Institution for the Education of the Blind, showing the condition of the various appropriations for the fiscal year ending November 15, 1881; and the first quarter of the year 1882. When I entered on my duties as financial officer, December 21, 1880, I found the State was in debt on account of current expenses, $1,494.55, for supplies purchased before November 15, 1880. This last year's indebtedness has been paid off out of this year's appropriation. This amount I have deducted from this year's expenses.

The amount disbursed from the fund for current expenses, after deducting total receipts from other sources than the State Treasury, and the value of supplies on hand, is.....	$26,945 99
Last year's debts paid (deducted).....	1,494 55

Net amount of current expenses for this year.....	$25,451 44
Salaries of officers and teachers .....	9,920 18
	$35,371 62

Average number of pupils in attendance.....	171
Number of the household, other than pupils.....	71

The following is a statement of the average expenses of each pupil; and also a per capita average of the general household for the year just closed :

Expenses, salaries included, per pupil.....	$206 85
Expenses, salaries excluded, per pupil.....	148 84
Expenses, salaries included, whole household.....	146 16
Expenses, salaries excluded, whole household .....	105 17

Supplies on hand—Groceries and provisions.....	$987 45
Coal and other fuel .....	832 90
Brooms and broom material .....	241 89
Beads and wire.....	622 41
Hay and oats .....	60 00
Soap and soap stock.....	70 50
Cylinder oil .....	22 50
	$2,837 65

I take this opportunity to thank the Trustees, G. L. Smead, M. A., Superintendent, and all the officers, teachers, and persons connected with the institution, for their courteous treatment and friendly advice while trying to discharge my official duties.

Very respectfully,

R. W. BELL,

Steward Institution for the Blind.

SUGGESTIONS.

To the Parents and Guardians of Blind Children and Youth:

The age at which it is best for children to enter the institution depends very much upon the circumstances of the families to which they belong. If they can be under good influences at home, can have the care of mothers and sisters, can take exercise in the open air, can be taught the use of words, can learn to count, and perform some of the operations in arithmetic, and commence learning to read, it is unquestionably better for them to remain at home until they are ten, or perhaps twelve years old; but if they cannot receive proper care, and be taught some of these things, they should come at the age of eight or nine years. Those who enter at this early age need not necessarily attend every year until their pupilage expires. After learning to read, and making a good beginning in other studies, they may spend a year at home now and then, and, by a little aid from their friends, may be constantly improving, or at least be prevented from forgetting what they have learned.

The following are some of the things which may be learned at their homes, as well as after they enter the institution:

1. To count and number, and to add, subtract, multiply and divide, etc.
2. The multiplication table.
3. To spell common words, beginning with monosyllables.
4. The meaning of common words.
5. The letters in raised print.
6. Items of general information. Every blind child of six or seven years old should know the points of the compass, the name of the town, county and State in which he lives, the number of counties in the State, and of States in the Union, etc.
7. Facts in geography and history may be added as they can be understood.
8. Hymns, verses of Scripture, and select passages of prose and poetry, which they can understand, should be committed to memory; these will furnish them subjects of thought when they are alone, of conversation when they are in company.
9. Singing common tunes, or playing some simple instrument.
10. There is no reason why a blind child should not commence attending the district or other school with his seeing brothers and sisters, and take part in the exercises in spelling, mental arithmetic, geography, etc.; indeed, in everything except reading.

Blind children can learn everything which can be taught by conversation, and by giving them an opportunity to examine and handle objects, just as well as those who have sight; and there is no reason why their education should not be commenced as early as that of seeing children. Indeed, instead of being neglected because they are blind, they should be taught with more care. During the last ten years, the parents of a number of blind children have written to me, as here requested, and then pursued the course above recommended. The result is that their children enter the institution with as much knowledge and discipline as they could acquire in one or two years of tuition here, and their future progress is much more easy and rapid than that of those who have had no such training at home.

I will furnish a copy of the alphabet, in raised print, to the parents of any blind child who will give me their names and postoffice address, and shall take great pleasure in giving any information which they may wish in relation to books or other things pertaining to the instruction of such children at home, or in regard to their admission to the institution. For such information, please address G. L. Smead, Columbus, Ohio.

After pupils have entered the institution, it is important that they should be present every day while they profess to attend. There is but one session in the year. On account of the discomfort and the greater risk of health, etc., to the blind from traveling in winter, it has never been customary to have a vacation or recess at the holidays, and parents are earnestly advised not to encourage their children to think of visiting home at that time. We observe as holidays, Thanksgiving, Christmas, February 22d, and May day. These we endeavor to make as pleasant to the pupils as possible. Between Christmas and New Year the classes go on as at other times, and scholars can not be absent for a week or more then without great loss to themselves, and great inconvenience to teachers; much greater than would be the case with other scholars, because here the instruction is given almost entirely by the teacher, and the scholar who is absent can not make up the missing lessons by studying them from books. The only possible way is for the teacher to sit down and do all the work over again. If this is not done, the pupil must suffer the inconvenience of his loss during the remainder of the term.

It has been our constant aim to secure to our pupils the greatest possible amount of benefit from the limited time allowed them here. For this purpose, after our younger pupils have attended one or two years, they are advised to remain at home a year or more, and, if practicable, to attend school with their seeing brothers and sisters. Many have done this, and, instead of forgetting what they acquired here, have learned half or two-thirds as much as they would have done in our classes. Besides the advantage gained from their greater maturity when they return, and the consequent ability to understand better what is here taught, and to appreciate the valuable opportunities the institution affords, these children learn much by thus associating with other children; the tendency to imitate manners or habits peculiar to the blind is obviated.

The same plan has been pursued by our older pupils, especially those who expect to engage in teaching; and it has been found that by remaining at home a year or more before spending the last year of their pupilage, reviewing and digesting what they have learned, ascertaining their deficiencies, etc., they are able, when they return, to accomplish as much during the last year as they might have done in two, had they not allowed their minds thus to mature.

The blind are, for the most part, to spend their lives among those who have sight. It should be the aim of all who have the oversight of them to render them as much like the seeing as possible. They should be carefully guarded against forming any habits which will be disagreeable to others. The blind are always noticed by strangers, and their manners and habits observed more particularly than those of other persons; hence, it is a very great kindness to them to prevent them from acquiring unsightly habits, or to correct them if such have been formed.

Parents should be especially careful to prevent their boys from forming the habit of using tobacco; its influence on all who begin to use it before reaching maturity is especially injurious, but it is even more so to the blind than to most others. Be assured it is no kindness to them to be allowed to form any such habits.

Much effort has been used to make the opportunities here provided known to the adult blind, and to induce them to enter as soon as possible after loss of sight. The importance of beginning, as soon as may be, to labor as blind men, can not be over-estimated. Every month's delay renders it more difficult for them to learn, and makes them more awkward, to say nothing of the moral influence of idleness, and the feeling of helplessness and dependence which must attend the person who feels that he is doing nothing for himself or others.

It has been customary to encourage our workmen to locate in the neighborhood in which they are acquainted, rather than to look to the institution for employment, or to seek it in large towns. The wisdom of this plan is proved by the experience of every year. A village of a few hundred inhabitants, with the surrounding country population, will usually furnish employment for a broom-maker during the year, and the adjacent country will, in most parts of the State, produce all the broom-corn he will need, so that he can obtain his material at very little cost for transportation. For the last twelve or fifteen years hardly an individual of ordinary force of character, who has pursued this course, and labored with perseverance and industry, has failed to make a respectable livelihood, while many have succeeded as well as the average of seeing persons.

The experience of many men warrants the statement that any blind man who has energy, and is disposed to be industrious, can in a short time learn to make corn-brooms, and become able to support himself. The machinery necessary to carry on this business costs only forty-five dollars. There are now in this State many blind persons who are earning from two hundred to three hundred dollars, or more, each year, instead of being supported in idleness, at a cost to their friends of two hundred to three hundred dollars per year.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

For the following papers and periodicals, sent gratuitously to the institution, the proprietors will please accept the thanks of the officers and pupils:

Weekly Cincinnati Times, Ladies' Repository, Western Christian Advocate, Herald and Presbyter, Religious Telescope (Dayton), Cleveland Herald, Geauga Republican, Stark County Democrat, Highland News, Ohio Educational Monthly, Christian Standard, Register and Tribune, Christian Press, Medina County Gazette, Democratic Messenger, Findlay Republican, Legal Record, Columbus Gazette, Ashland times.

The publishers of these papers, and those of others who are willing so to do, will confer a great favor by forwarding their publications during the coming year.

TERMS OF ADMISSION, ETC.

Applications for admission should be addressed to the "Superintendent of the Institution for the Blind, Columbus, Ohio," and should state the name, residence and post-office of the applicant's parent or guardian, and the supposed cause of blindness. Applicants must be between the ages of six and twenty-one years. Their time in the institution is regulated by the statute of 1879.

Persons over twenty-one years of age, if free from bad habits, can enter the institution for one year to learn a trade. Persons of this class have an opportunity to hear instructive reading in the evening; they are expected to be present at morning and evening worship, and to attend church on the Sabbath, like other pupils. A man of active mind, and some acquaintance with the use of tools, can learn to make corn-brooms in three or four months; some have done it in half that time. Those who have recently lost their sight, and who wish to learn a trade, should come here as soon as possible; every month's delay renders it more difficult to learn.

For residents of the State the school is free, no charge being made for board or tuition; but parents and guardians must provide their children with good and suitable clothing, and pay their traveling expenses, and should also deposit with the Steward a small sum for occasional expenses. For pupils residing out of the State the terms are one hundred and twenty dollars per annum, payable half yearly in advance.

The term commences on the second Wednesday of September, and continues forty weeks. The proper time for admission is at the commencement of the term.

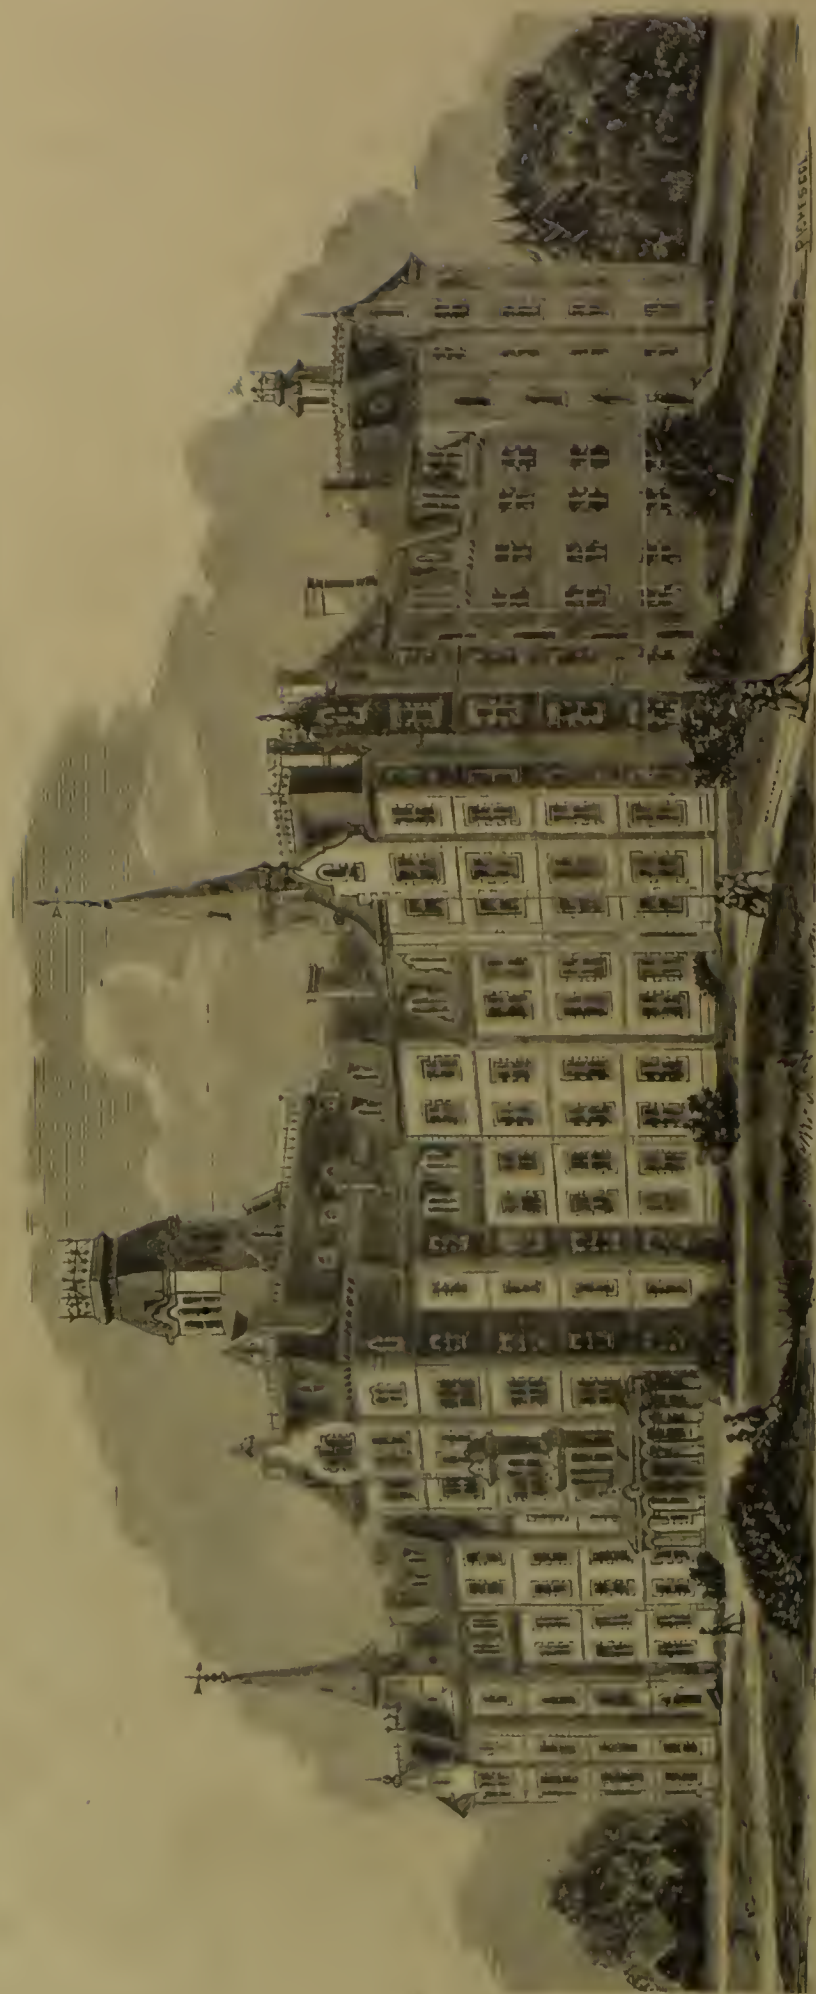

Vacation continues twelve weeks—from the close of the term in June until the second Wednesday in September. Pupils are expected to spend the vacation at home, or with their friends.

When boxes or packages are sent to pupils, a letter should at the same time be sent by mail, stating distinctly how the same is to come, whether by stage or express, or as freight, and what route.

All letters to pupils should have, after the name, this address—
